THE BELGIAN HARE HERE

Two of the Pests Are Known to Be in Town.

AVE Belgian hares been introduced into the Hawaiian Islands? It asserted by George Carter that at least two of the pests have been brought to Honolulu and are now in the possession of one of its citizens. His Campbell, of Castle & Cooke, while on one of the tramway cars, saw a passenger with a crate in two hares were secured. Mr. Campbell, who has seen enough of the Belgian variety to know them by sight, asserts that the two hares were none other than the pest which has been a scourge to every section of the United States in which they have been allowed to breed.

Two Belgian hares will breed at such an alarming rate as to cause the variety to become a four-footed devastation. A number of persons interested in sugar plantations see in the breeding of being waged against them constantly, but all the shotguns in Oahu would hardly be a match for the thousands hardly be a match for the thousands to the idea emanating from the actorney upon thousands of Belgian hares which might spring from the pair in the crate cas corpus cases, this is not true it seen this week. It is conjectured that the hares were brought ashore quietly willing to take the blame for it. Mr Cathfrom a sailing ship from the Coast, as they are not permitted here under the of the Republic of Hawaii, Section 1483 of the Penal Laws of 1897 says:

The keeping and breeding of rabbits in the various islands of the Republic of Hawaii is hereby prohibited of Hawaii is hereby prohibited.

Section 1485. Any police officer or other officer of the peace is hereby authorized to destroy any rabbit found in this Republic, and no officer destroy-ing any rabbits shall be liable for any damages, provided that no officer shall enter any inhabited enclosure without authority of law under a warrant duly

Wray Taylor, Commissioner of Agriculture, states that in all cases when application has been made for importing rabbits he has refused permits, acting under the law. He states also that the Federal authorities have a regulation covering their importation. ## THE HARDWARE

Sons, Limited, held a meeting yesterday afternoon at which the action of the officers providing for the construction of a new building on the ruins of the one recently burned was ratified. It was voted to let the architect go ahead and make his estimates and prepare plans for the new structure. It was reported that this would take considerable time, as he would have to make an examination of the foundations and walls to ascertain whether they were in condition to be used again.

The proposition to consolidate the es tablishments of E. O. Hall & Son and the Hawaiian Hardware Company was discussed only in a general way. At the meeting it was brought out that the Hall directors had not made any proposition to the Hawaiian Hardware Company, but that all overtures had been made by the latter. The thought of joining the two concerns had not occurred to the Hall directors until broached by the stockholders of the Hawaiian company.

Mr. Hall said after the meeting: understand that a broker who has had talks with most of the stockholders of the Hawaiian Hardware Company has secured the promise of the majority of It seemed to me a question of veracity, them to sell out their stock to us if we from what the court stated, between wished to buy. Though the court has given you instruction in regard to the law you have seen it to disregard it, and taken the statement of the Attorney General on a matter of law, as 19 whether the decision of this court was right. This action on the this court was right. This action on the part of the Attorney General is wholly unprecedented. His duty is to advise you as to indictments, not to tell you what this court should do in matters you have under consideration, or how they may be concluded. This court does not intend to hold the Grand Jury for three weeks until the Supreme Court gives its opinion in the habeas corpus cases. I want to say that I consider the action of the Supreme Court in making the statement in this matter to the Grand Jury, as stand-ing alone in the history of courts, with-

Mr. Catheart—"If the Grand Jury is adjourned until Tuesday I will have the indictments ready for signatures."

"I do not think the Grand Jury can adjourned, except from day to day," replied the court.

"The court will take note of your ob-jection."

At this stage of the proceedings one of the other jurors spoke up, stating that the Grand Jury was about to take action in the habeas corpus matter; that they had been working on other cases, and expected to reach these cases today.

"The court will not require any further service of you," replied Judge Gear, soon as you have completed the now in hand, and signed the bills, you may be excused. While the court has some doubt as to the right to excuse you some doubt as to the right to excuse you over one day, or until next Tucsday, this will be done, the Attorney General advising that it will be proper. I thank you, gentlemen of the jury, for the work done." The jury was then excused until Tuesday morning.

After the jury had left the room, Mr. Catheart requested the privilege of ad-dressing the court, which was granted. Bruce Cartwright resigned as a director of the E. O. Hall Company and T. W. Hobron was elected to fill the vacancy.

"If the court please, I was brought before the bar and fined for contempt. I would like to explain why I refused to be sworn; not for the purpose of modifying the court's decision, but to place myself in a proper light. If I offended the court, I desire to apologize. The court: "You refused to tell under oath what you had previously stated."
"It seemed to me that my word as attorney was sufficient without being sworn as a witness."

"I have never before questioned you word," said the court in reply.
"The court understands that I was not before it as a witness, or to be caught by the peculiar practices of cross-exam-ination."

"There are two ways of showing this, One was a respectful one, the other a disrespectful method." "I had not intended to be disrespect-ful," replied Mr. Catheart.

The relations between this court and the Deputy Attorney General have always been pleasant, and the court believes that the action of the Deputy Attorney General was not intended. It feels justified in imposing the fine for contempt, but Mr. Catheart having ex-plained that he did not mean to be dis-courteous, the court will remit the fine imposed upon him. The court does not want the enmity of the Attorney General's department, and prefers to con-tinue the pleasant relations hitherto ex-isting. The court believes if there was any discourtesy it was in the heat of the moment. The only way that this court may protect itself is by such fines. The court does not consider that it erred, but in view of the explanations will remit the fine imposed."

WHAT MAY HAPPEN

When the Grand Jury which was called by Judge Gear two weeks ago is discharged next Tuesday, which is the present program, another chapter will be added to the tale of the contentions in the judiciary department of the gov-ernment of the Territory of Hawait. That there may be another chapter is the opinion of many members of the the opinion of many members of the bar, who, knowing that not more than one-half of the cases which should have been considered by this Grand Jury have been brought before it, are of opinion that another fall delivery may be had. This may be secured by attorneys who will claim that their clients are held without trial, to which they are entitled.

The estate, through Attorney McClanahan, appeared before the Tax Appeal Court yesterday to introduce evidence to prove that this increase was "outrageous and unwarranted," to quote the words of their representative. Nearly the entire afternoon was occurbed in bearing the Kandolani appeal.

The proceedings in the Circuit Court and the hearing is to be resumed to-yesterday have aroused much discus-sion, and there will be more before day.

A question which is brought out by the action of the Judge was much discussed yesterday. That is the power of the judge to lay out the work of the Grand Jury in its entirety, leaving no rights to the Grand Jury at that neighborhood.

THEF JUSTICE PREAR TALKS.

There seems to be a question of chicity involved as well. Justice Frear, of the Suprema Court, said last evening. I have never made any statement to my person which would give any idea to the action of the Supreme Court this matter. When the foreman of the Grand Jury came to me, I considered that he came as a public officer, accepted by the assessor. I can see no wanting information which was perfectly proper for him to have His question was whether or not an option might be expected soon.
